ALL SPORTS.

—Cleveland is gaining friends in England every day.

—The Prison service will begin at 1 o'clock today instead of 2.

—Al. Mills, of the Virginia Chronicle, came down from the Lake last night.

—Miss Emma Duff has returned from California and taken her old place in the Mint.

—Clem Berry was fined $60 or 30 days in jail yesterday in the Justice Court for disturbing the street.

—Ex-Governor Alger, of Michigan, visited the Republican headquarters at New York day before yesterday and left a check for $100,000.

—Not a particle of calomel, nor any other deleterious substance, enters into the composition of Ayer's Pills. On the contrary, this medicine is carefully compounded from the curative properties of purely vegetable substances. Try it.

—If you wish to restore the bloom to your wasted cheek, and so improve your health that plumpness and strength will succeed emaciation and debility, purify your blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This remedy will benefit you more surely and speedily than any other.

—General Harrison is never disappointing in whatever direction he is tested. In 1887 he said in a speech delivered in Indianapolis: "I would rather be William O'Brien in Tullamore jail, a martyr to free speech, than the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland in Dublin Castle."

—Louis Elges, of Genoa, obtained a divorce from his wife last week on the grounds of cruelty. The Courier mentioned it and Elges stopped his paper. Very little good that will do him, for every paper in the State will print the episode and comment on it.

A BAD RUNAWAY.

A Camping Party Shaken Up on the Clear Creek Grade.

About one o'clock yesterday morning, D. Circe and family started for Lake Valley to make a camping trip, taking the early hours of the morning to drive to avoid the sun. Just above the second bridge on the Clear Creek grade the team became unmanageable and as they reared and plunged, one of the singletrees broke and the neck yoke came off. This dropped the tongue to the ground snapping it at once. The other singletree then gave way and the horses dragged the driver over the dash-board and upset the wagon.

Mrs. Circe was thrown out and badly bruised, her nose being broken. A thirteen-year-old daughter of Mrs. Crabb had her arm crushed. Miss Langevin was thrown over the grade but received no injuries. Willie Circe was thrown against a boulder but his injuries are not serious. The driver was dragged several hundred feet and was nearly stripped of his clothing, but was not badly injured. Mr. Circe, the owner of the team, was ahead with another team. The horses have not been heard of since and have probably gone off the rocky grade and been killed.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

[From our regular correspondent.]

WASHINGTON, July 20, 1888.

Senator Chase's bill, providing that suitable matter of the third class shall consist of all matter now embraced by law in the third and fourth classes and shall pay a postage of 1 cent for each two ounces has been favorably reported from the Senate committee on postoffices.

The purchase of the chairmanship of the National Democratic campaign committee by Calvin Brice the railroad millionaire, has been much discussed here during the past day or two. He is to pay for it with a big contribution on the corruption fund of the Democratic party. Some say that he promised $500,000. It will be his first political experience and the old wheel horses of the party are much disgusted at his being selected.

The discussion on the Mills tariff bill this week brought out the sectional points of that hodge podge in a stronger light than ever. It protects the interests of the South, with the exception of her newly developed iron industries and lets the interests of all other sections suffer. It goes in for free wool, but refuses to give the country free sugar; it admits free of duty iron ties for baling cotton but refuses to admit free hoop iron for baling hay. These are fair specimens of the injustice that runs through the entire measure, which probably before this paragraph is in print will have received, by its passage of the House, the official endorsement of the Democratic party.

Cleveland has evidently got the whip hand of the Democratic House. Of the large number of Democrats who loudly swore they would never vote for free wool, only three had the courage to vote against the dictation of Cleveland when that clause of the tariff bill was reached. Those three were Foran and Wilkerson of Ohio and Sowden of Pennsylvania.

In spite of the opposition of the Democrats, the Senate has passed the bill placing Jno. C. Fremont on the retired list of the Army, with the rank of Major General. This is an honor that General Fremont has well earned by great services to his country.

Senator Stewart has been working hard to have Washington Territory made a State.

The bill introduced by Senator Spooner some time ago, to put the interstate telegraph business under the control of the inter-state commerce commission, has been favorably reported upon.

The House conferees have so far refused to agree to all the canal appropriations put into the river and harbor bill by the Senate.

The Senate has passed the bill known as the eight hour claim bill. It provides that all laborers workmen and mechanics, employed by the Government since June 5, 1888, shall be paid for each eight hours he has been employed, without any reduction of pay on account of the reduction of the hours of labor.

The select committee to investigate contract pauper immigration, consists of Representatives Ford, Spinola, Oates, Morrow, and Gletcher. They will take testimony at New York, Boston, San Francisco, possibly other places.

Senator Chandler has made a red hot speech against the ratification of the fisheries treaty. He said the treaty was a National dishonor, that the vanity and decrepitude of that aged statesman, Mr. Bayard made it easy for Mr. Chamberlain, the experienced English diplomat to secure a great victory. He said further that the great object of the Democratic British alliance, was to pass the Mills bill, to keep the Democratic party in power and to destroy the American tariff system. These injurious assaults on American interests, by the combined forces of English free trade and Southern Democrats, ought to be met on the threshold by the rejection of this miserable treaty. In concluding Mr. Chandler pointed out the fact that this administration had deliberately abandoned the Monroe doctrine. To the South the Panama Canal was being constructed and within five years the Isthmus of Panama was likely to become a French colony while the administration was opposing and defeating the Nicaragua Canal scheme. To the North, the Dominion of Canada was growing stronger and more powerful than had ever been dreamed of. She was boldly seizing the transportation interests of the United States, was forcing her way into American markets, was perpetrating outrages on American fishing vessels, and was forcing the United States to treat with her on unequal and degrading terms. COMSTOCK PANORAMA.

How it Got its First Start in Virginia City.

The three young men who hit on this idea of getting up stereoscopic views of the Comstock, are James Tracy, James Connolly and Robert Ball.

Now that they have started the ball rolling and demonstrated what a success it is, hundreds of people want to butt their heads against a wall for never having thought of it before.

Every year hundreds of tourists visit the Comstock to see the most wonderful exhibition of mining engineering in the world and thousands who have trod the streets of a city 3000 feet underground have gone back home with the feeling that it was the most extraordinary experience of their lives.

Odd wasn't it that no one ever thought of putting this wonderland before the public in the shape of a lecture illustrated by stereoscopic views.

These three young miners when times were dull, were out of employment, but instead of putting in their time loafing about a faro bank they set at work getting up their panorama of the Comstock and every spare dollar they could hustle up they put into the scheme.

After a good many set backs and vexatious delays they have now got their enterprise on its feet and are beginning to make it pay a little.

It is not a bonanza yet, but they are continually improving it and when they get East they will strike a section where people are hungry to learn about the Comstock and they will have packed houses and get rich as they fully deserve to.

They stated to the writer yesterday that they were indebted to Dan DeQuill for a great deal of their information and data and that he had done more for them than anyone.

They have tried hard to get him to allow his photograph to be thrown up on a canvass but the modest old lunatic refuses to loan them his picture.

The lecture on the Comstock would be incomplete without Dan's phiz and people all over the East who have read Dan's writings and enjoyed them would be glad to get a glimpse of the author's face through the medium of lenses and lime light.

A Mining Suit Settled.

The suit of C. W. Friend, administrator of the estate of James Kinkead, deceased, vs. the Pyramid Lake Mining Company has been amicably settled.

The action was to receive and foreclose a mortgage given by the J & K Mining Company (now the Pyramid Lake Mining Company) to James Kinkead, deceased, for an amount running into the thousands.

By the terms of settlement the owners of the mortgage have received in full satisfaction of their claim, one-fifth of the capital stock 20,000 shares. The stipulation was filed in this city a few days ago and was authorized by Judge Rising.

Irish Comedy.

James Ward and his winsome wife will appear two nights this week in some genuine Irish comedy. Ward is about the only Irish comedian of any note that is left now, and to hear him in his favorite roles means two hours of solid enjoyment.
